RT. HON. MACKENZIE KING
AS PRIME MINISTER

After piloting the administration of the Dominion for nine years, Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King is about to hand over the reins of office to another. Those who have followed the career of the retiring prime minister will see in the Mackenzie King of today a man who at the end of nine years has astoundingly refuted the opinions held of him when he stepped into the position, as leader of his party, of prime minister of Canada, a position which still hold the reflected glory of that great Liberal Chief, Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Mackenzie King had much to measure up to in following so illustrious a predecessor as the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier. There were those even among his own party who had their doubts as to whether he had ability enough to take up the mantle of a predecessor, who had earned the full confidence and regard of his followers. It is no secret when we say that there was not that cohesion of opinion, not that unanimous confidence in him which is commonly given to the accredited leader of a great party. Mackenzie King was, so to speak, on trial. He had to justify himself in the minds of the doubters.

How does Mackenzie King stand today after nine years as prime minister of Canada? Fair and unprejudiced opinion will freely accord that he has mellowed into a statesman of no mean reputation. He has brought Canada to a position of honorable dignity, regard and respect in the Empire. Far from what was expected from him, he has showed himself an imperial statesman. His administration of the Dominion has linked Canada, and carried her name through the Empire and through the world, making British Nations. He has showed himself possessed of all the little dreamed of. He was a far-seeing and broadminded statesmanship. He gave Canada an honored place in the councils of the Empire.

Mackenzie King leaves a greater Canada than it was nine years ago, and we can confidently say a greater Mackenzie King. The doubters when he first took the office of premier have had their doubts dispipated. He has united a party, which was not so united nine years ago in regard to him. He has won their confidence and regard as a chieftain whom they have learned to know. He has risen in their estimation, at a station which he himself was responsible in making in the way he has regarded and in the way he has conducted the internal and external affairs of the Dominion Governments cannot go on forever, and the Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King steps out of office with a reputation gained which was hardly foreseen nine years ago.—Ex.

BELLEVEUE LAD VICTIM OF AUTO ACCIDENT

A young lad named Hawksley, of Gadaby, employed as a junior clerk at the Bellevue branch of the Royal Bank of Canada, met death almost instantly last evening, when a car in which he and several others were driving left the main trail near Police Viata.

The lads had been down to Lee Lake for a few hours bathing and the accident happened when returning home.

As far as we can learn, other occupants of the car escaped with minor injuries.

The Hawksley lad had been in Bellevue but a few months.

HON. R. B. BENNETT

Hon. R. B. Bennett is called to the office of Prime Minister at a time when conditions will tax to the utmost his qualities of character and ability. No predecessor in office has faced, so far as immediate necessities are concerned, a heavier task.

The Tribune believes that the people of Canada will find in Mr. Bennett a man worthy of the confidence they have expressed in him. He has ample personal fortunes, a fact that has been most ungenerously used against him by his opponents. But if it was his effort to make of Mr. Bennett's wealth a political liability it is by no means conceivable that Mr. Bennett will make it a political asset.

The new prime minister of Canada is unconcerned about the further acquisition of material things. For him there remains for achievement the single object of rendering distinguished public service. He is in a position to think and work for that alone. His known qualities warrant the belief that he will do so.

The picture drawn of Mr. Bennett by his political opponents as a cold, hard, mercenary man is a false one. There is a strongly emotional side to him as well as the severely business. The inner man is revealed in his pride in the little New Brunswick home, where he was reared, in his devotion to the sister who has rendered him so much assistance in his political work, and in other important things which an austere exterior hides.

Mr. Bennett has industry and imagination, the twin partners in high success. That these will be faithfully applied in the country's service is the belief of his friends and the hope of the thousands who have made him prime minister of Canada. —Winnipeg Tribune.

OUR MEMBER

Mr. George Coote, M.P., is to be congratulated on his re-election as representative of the Macleod riding for the third consecutive term. And no less are the electors to be congratulated on their representation in Parliament.

Mr. Coote's record has been fair and fearless. There is no doubt that it will continue to be so. Any legislation that promotes the welfare of the Dominion finds in him a sincere supporter. In the past nine years, he has strongly promoted a number of beneficial measures and presented them cleverly and forcefully before the House. He has earned the confidence of this electorate.

While his majority was considerably reduced over the 1926 election, this casts no reflection on Mr. Coote or his record. It is rather a reversal to old party allegiance. The strong Bennett sentiment, general from coast to coast, had its expression in this riding in the excellent support accorded Mr. Matheson, who himself, created a favorable impression and won an active following.

It was evident that in the minds of many, the interests of the people would be better served by a vote for a party which could form a government.

Now that the contest is over, however, there is no doubt that Mr. Coote returns to Ottawa with the goodwill and admiration of the entire electorate, who have full confidence that he will be ready to support any legislation that is for general betterment. —High River Times.

WORLD HAPPENINGS
BRIEFLY TOLD

British Columbia's recent lumber mission to Australia will seek co-operation of the provincial government in securing a timber tariff preference in that dominion.

The Italian council of ministers voted an appropriation of 100,000,000 lire, or about $5,230,000, to rebuild the stricken earthquake area of Middle South Italy.

Mrs. Sarojini Naidu, woman leader of the Indian Nationalists, is said by the Daily Herald to be willing to compromise with the government somewhat short of Mahatma Gandhi's demands for independence.

The London naval treaty passed through all its stages in the House of Lords and only needed the royal assent before becoming effective. The bill gives legal support to the pact entered into at the recent London naval conference.

The viable supply of American grain at the end of July shows the following changes in bushels: Wheat increased 14,503,000; corn decreased 278,000; oats decreased 995,900; rye increased 38,000; barley increased 276,000.

Premier Ramsay MacDonald announced in the House of Commons, that the government proposed to invite the leaders of the two opposition parties to nominate a representative from both Houses to participate in the round table conference on India which will be held this fall.

Great Britain's unemployment total is clearing the 2,000,000 mark. It was announced by the Ministry of Labor. The official statement said that on July 21 the number of persons out of work was 1,972,700, an increase of 32,834 in a week and 850,077 in a year.

Brandon police are looking for the person who passed an American one dollar bill off on a local hotel for $20. The bill was raised from $1 to $20 in such masterful style that the authorities are of the opinion that the country might be flooded with the bills. The work is thoroughly done and it was only when the bill had received close scrutiny at the bank that the deception was caught.

Interesting Experiment

During recent experiments, Marconi has recorded air messages on a phonograph disc with perfect success. The experiment was made by the inventor while on his yacht lying near Genoa. The message was sent to Sydney, Australia, about 11,000 miles away. The recording was not only caught perfectly, but was re-transmitted from Sydney by wireless to the original sender.

Motion-picture fans of Denmark prefer the silent film and soft music to the sound film. Especially is this apparent in Copenhagen. The principal reason is apparently the linguistic difficulties, which the partial translation of texts has failed to overcome. Few Danes understand English.

Chinese Stowaways

Party Of Six Have Narrow Escape From Death When Vessel Is Fumigated

Efforts of six Chinese stowaways to enter Canada aboard the British freighter S.S. Benarity, failed when they reached New Westminster recently.

The sextette were fortunate to be alive after more than two weeks in a coal bunker aboard the ship, and especially after fumigation operations took place. By some chance deadly cyanide gas failed to reach the hold where the Chinese were hiding.

Officers who entered the hold declared it was a marvel they survived the ocean trip as it was probably worse than the famous "Black Hole of Calcutta." It was believed that Chinese members of the ship's crew kept their compartments provided with food for the long trip.

The ship left Yokohama on July 4. After being arrested they were turned over to the Vancouver immigration authorities to await deportation.

Amended Grain Act

New Regulations Come Into Force On September First

By a proclamation in the current issue of the "Canada Gazette," the Grain act as amended shall come into force on September 1.

The act was re-written following recommendations made by the agricultural committee of the House of Commons, and was passed last session. A lengthy investigation of the operation of the act was conducted during the last two sessions of parliament and numerous amendments were approved. Several grades were given new definitions, clauses were inserted to prevent mixing of grades and the whole field of the act's operation was reviewed.

OUT DOOR LIFE CALLS FOR NOURISHING FOOD

Well Known Domestic Science Authority

Off for a day or a month—in the car or hiking, boating, fishing—after a few hours you will find FOOD food up as the highest thing in the world. Scenery, yes—but such appetites!

Of course milk, and plenty of it, is essential for nourishing, appetizing food—and for campers or picnickers Borden's St. Charles Brand Evaporated Milk is by far the best choice, providing plenty of pure, rich milk, regardless of weather conditions, rough journeys, out-of-the-way camping places—and lack of ice.

Because Evaporated Milk has had half the water removed, you can rely on its extra richness, which can be utilized to take the place of eggs or butter in many kinds of cooking. For instance, an old guide, famous for his fish fries, told me that in camp he always dipped the fish in undiluted Evaporated Milk before the final coating with corn meal.

When Evaporated is to be used instead of milk in any recipe it should be diluted with an equal part of water. Remember, this simple rule and you will find it successful in your own recipes. To "cream" your coffee, use it undiluted.

Speaking of Fish—

A "dry pot" is used by Canadian guides for cooking large chunks. After dipping the pieces of fish in Evaporated Milk and then in corn meal drop into the deep fat (very hot). Fry until browned. And by the way, take this hint from seasoned camp cooks—a very little fire (if possible sheltered from the wind) will do the job better than a face-blasting camp stove.

A savory fish chowder is always a welcome dish in camp, and it's easily made with Evaporated Milk.

Fish Chowder

Cut the fish in chunks and remove as many bones as possible. Cover the bottom of an iron pot with slices of fat salt pork and fry out part of the fat. Remove part of the pork slices. Then add a layer of sliced raw potatoes, some sliced onions and a layer of fish. Cover with pieces of hard tack biscuit and season each layer, scattering the salt for the pork in very salt. Repeat the process until the pot is two-thirds full. Add just enough water to cover to level of the fish. Cover the pot and simmer for one and one-half hours, or until the potatoes and fish are tender. Add one tall can of Borden's St. Charles Milk. Bring just to boiling. Serve.

Easy Hot Breads

Hot corn bread to eat with the bacon, fish, or pork and gravy, are an open-house affair a day in the open—to begin the day.

Cornmeal Flapjacks

1 cup cornmeal
1 cup flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup Borden's St. Charles Milk
1/2 cup water
2 tablespoons melted fat (bacon fat may be used).

Mix and sift the dry ingredients. Add the milk, diluted with water, and beat well. Add the fat. Bake on a hot, greased griddle. Turn once. They need a little longer cooking than wheat griddle cakes.

Camp Corn Dolegers

Put one quart cornmeal into a bowl. Make a hollow in center of meal and into this put one tablespoon lard and one teaspoon salt. Pour over this equal parts Borden's St. Charles Milk and water heated to scalding point, stirring all the time until a dough is formed which can be molded with hands. Cool slightly, form into cakes and cook slowly on a well greased griddle. (The quantity of diluted milk needed depends on the kind of cornmeal used.)

Lost Purse Is Found

Pocketbook Lost Eight Years Ago Is Recovered In Corn Field

A pocketbook containing $35 lost eight years ago, was recently recovered by the loser. Back in 1922 Jacob Sligh, a Michigan farmer, was assisting his brother-in-law, Koene Vanden Bosch, harvest hay and lost his pocketbook. Vanden Bosch while cultivating corn in the same field spied the purse, so worn it fell apart when handled. It was carefully kept together and brought to its owner who turned it over to the United States treasury department for redemption of the currency it contained.

Commercial planes of the future will have to be considerably faster to suit Lieut. Alfred J. Williams, American speed ace. Takes Brains To Be A Farmer

Greatest Water Powers In Canada Can Be Developed At The Coast

The greatest water powers in Canada, greater even than those harnessed along the St. Lawrence, have been revealed along the coast of British Columbia, north of Vancouver, by government engineers, during the past summer. It is stated at parliament buildings, Victoria.

Preliminary reports indicate that in addition to the noted Taseko Creek Homathko power, with a possible development of 1,200,000 horsepower, two other sources of electricity discovered bring the possible development of the coast district up to the huge figures of 3,000,000 horsepower.

The two new power sites, revealed by recent surveys, are at Tahtsa Lake and Estunak Lake. By turning the waters of these lakes westward to the sea instead of eastward into the Fraser, engineers believe that 1,800,000 horsepower can be harnessed. The third project calls for the diversion of the Chiluk water westward to the sea by the Homathko River.

Wheat Pool Elevators

Up to July 16, 1930, the percentage of Pool Wheat delivered to the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool and passing through Pool Country Elevators amounted to 87.12 per cent. leaving only 12.88 per cent. as having gone through Line Elevators. The corresponding percentage of grain through Pool Elevators at the same date last year was 74.60 per cent.

HANNAN "A GODLY MOTHER"

Golden Text: "My son, hear the instruction of thy father, and forsake not the law of thy mother."—Proverbs 1:8.

Lesson: 1 Samuel 1:1-28; 2:1-11, 18, 19, 31-35.

Devotional Reading: Luke 1:46-55.

Explanations and Comments

Hannah's Prayer For a Son, Chapter 1:1-11.—Hannah and her husband Elkanah went regularly every year to the Sanctuary at Shiloh, there to worship and offer sacrifice at one of the great religious feasts, probably "the Feast of Tabernacles," which was held after the grape and olive harvest.

As was customary, after a portion of the sacrificial victim was burnt at the altar, and the priests, the family partook of the rest within the sanctuary precincts. Hannah could not eat, for sad and bitter thoughts filled her mind as she thought her children led with that of Peninnah, Elkanah's other wife, who was blessed with many children. After the meal was over she presented herself in the temple to pray to Jehovah. Her prayer was accompanied by many tears, standing with her face towards the ark, she made her vow that if Jehovah would bless her with a son, she would consecrate him all the days of his life to Jehovah, and he should be a Nazirite, one who was to abstain from wine and all intoxicating drinks, the letting the hair grow, and the avoidance of delicacies by corpses.

The Answer To Prayer, 1:10, 20.—Hannah returned to her home in Ramah. When she was made happy by the coming of a son, she named him Samuel, because I have asked him of the Lord." Hebrew scholars tell us that the word "Samuel" has no connection with the Hebrew word for "asked," and they connect the first part of the name with the Semitic root for "name," taking Samuel to mean "Name of God." Hannah Gives Her Child, 2:1-11.—The Service Of Jehovah, verses 24-28.—When Hannah weaned her boy, he was probably three years old. She brought him to the house of the Lord in Shiloh. She brought also an offering of three bullocks, a bushel of meal and a bottle of wine.

Hannah made herself known to Eli the priest by recalling the time when he had seen her praying in the sanctuary, and then she presented the boy for whom she had prayed.

Ontario Grain Pool

Announcement has been made by the Ontario Grain Pool that the initial payment to members is based on 60 cents per bushel for numbers two, three and four red, white or mixed wheat, and 29 cents per bushel for number two white oats and barley at malting grade. With maximum deductions of local handling the payments net growers 60 cents and 25 cents.

Shortage Of Small Coins

French business men recently complained to the Ministry of Finance that there was an insufficiency of 50 centimes (approximately 2 cents) pieces in circulation and demanded a new stamp. The ministry estimates that there are 446,000,000 50 centime-pieces in circulation.

Feat Of Mountain Climbers

Eight Peaks Over Ten Thousand Feet High Are Negotiated

Eight peaks over 10,000 feet high, three of them unnamed, in the upper region of the Athabasca River and behind Malaga Lake, where the Canadian Alpine Club assembled at its annual camp, were reported to have been climbed for the first time with the return, after an absence of 17 days of a party led by Dr. Max Strumia, of Philadelphia, and Dr. W. R. Hainsworth, of New York.

Accompanied by Newton Waite, of Orange, N.J., and John F. Lehmann, of Everett, Mass., Strumia and Hainsworth first climbed Mount Christie, 10,180 feet high, from a high camp on Fryatt Creek. Later, climbing Mount Belanger, 10,500 feet in altitude, they were within 50 feet of being eaten to their death by avalanches and on their descent were held for three hours on a rock ledge till the descending sun rendered snowslides improbable and their progress was assured.

An unnamed peak near Mount Wolley, whose altitude is placed at 10,700 feet, offered the greatest difficulty. Only by inserting "petons,"—iron spikes to which they could attach their climbing rope, were they able to attain its summit.

Climbing from the site of the Canadian Alpine club on Malaga Lake, they made the first ascent of three peaks of Mount Malaga, all over 10,000 feet in height, and mapped for the first time the tremendous ice fields surrounding it. Dr. Strumia, who has climbed in Switzerland, France, Italy and North America, a total of 75 peaks and made 25 first ascents, said recently that during the trip just completed through Jasper Park he experienced some of the most difficult rock and snow work he has yet encountered. The party was outfitted by "Curly" Phillips.

CHAPTER XXIII.

If there had been any doubt that Wickfield would accept Doctor Howe's assistant, it was dispelled when he successfully removed Diana Moore's appendix.

"And no wonder," the old doctor said to Grandma, a week after the operation. "There wasn't time to take the child to the hospital. There wasn't even time to get a nurse. It's no easy thing to perform an operation under such circumstances. I felt like cursing the deacon for his parsimony in not having had his house wired for electric lights; but I'll say for Luella that her lamp chimneys shone like nothin' before seen in heaven or on earth! And somehow, we did the job. The first week's past, and no complications have arisen—except Edgar! He asked me tonight if they couldn't get along without the nurse we got from Portland the next morning."

"I presume that poor Luella will never hear the last of the expense," sighed Grandma, "but I shan't waste too much pity on her because she put her head into the noose with her eyes open. Well, Edward, it's a long time since I've seen you to have a talk. With a doctor right in the house I haven't bothered you when I had an ache or pain—not that I'll ever feel the same to any doctor that I do to you," she added loyally.

The old man smiled.

"I'm only a habit, Polly," he reminded her. "You can trust John Carter, take my word for it. It's going to be easier leaving you all when my time comes, knowing you're in good hands. It was a fortunate day for me when I brought him here."

"And fortunate for us, too, Edward. I don't know how we'd manage without him to tend the furnace now Charman's away all day. But you mustn't talk about leaving us. Whether we want you or not, it's a comfort to know you're here. Maybe I'll go first, Edward, and be on hand to greet you in the heavenly kingdom!"

"Perhaps you will," the doctor admitted, smiling, "but I hope not, Polly. I'd rather know that you were down here keeping watch over Wickfield from this window, and making a home for that dear girl of ours. I'd hoped to see her settled before I go, with some good fellow to take care of her. I had a method in my madness when I sent John Carter to board here; but as far as I know my hopes have borne no fruit."

"I don't mind admitting to you," responded Grandma, "that some such notion has occurred to me. They're congenial, and though he doesn't look over and above husky, I guess Charman's strong enough to make up for anything he lacks. He's got a good disposition, and he's not fussy about his food. He's good to look at, too; but between you and me, Edward, I don't know what's keeping him apart unless it's Jimmy Bennett."

The doctor glanced up in surprise. "I had an idea that all that was settled before Jim went to California."

"Then you guessed wrong," replied Grandma with decision. "What made you think so?"

"Something Jim said to me before he went. I thought that was what reconciled him to leaving Wickfield. Well, it's possible that I misunderstood; and I'm not rooting for my young doctor if it's going to hurt Jim Bennett. Polly, you can bank on that. I never knew a finer, cleaner chap than Jim."

"Well," said Grandma, "I suppose these young folks will have to settle it themselves, Edward. The best meaning friends and relatives are not much use at such a time. But it looks to me as if Jim was destined to spend his life picking peaches for his mother."

"I'd rather he picked one for himself," Polly said the old man whimsically. "As Edgar Purdie is fond of quoting: 'It is not good for man to live alone,' and no one realizes that truth better than I. I've had a happy life, and I hope, a useful one; but I never come in after the day's work that I don't wonder how it would seem if Kate were there to greet me. No, I don't want either of those boys to live as I have."

"You'll come again soon?" asked Grandma wistfully, as her old friend picked up his shabby bag, and prepared to leave.

"Yes, I'll drop in often. From now on I'm going to take things easier and see more of the folks in reality care for. Good-night, Polly. Give my love to Charman."

He was as good as his word. As the relentless New England winter gave way to warmer days, Charman became accustomed to finding the old doctor sitting with Grandma when he returned from school. Yet he had not given up his work by any means. There were still some who would have made of the younger man while they could get the old; there were others to whom his very presence meant so much that he could not forsake them; and there were the poor and lonely who needed his medicine and his cheery greeting.

Spring was coming. Its breath was in the air despite patches of snow that lingered tenaciously in shady places.

"I'm filled with a longing to clean house," said Charman, coming in on the two old folks one afternoon. "Fussy willows are out, though I think they'd never come; and the frogs are peeping."

She stooped to kiss her grandmother, and when the doctor said, "Haven't you another of those to spare, child?" She kissed him, too.

"You're to have supper with us, Doctor," she commanded. "We'll have a party—you and Grandma, and Doctor John and I. I've simply got to do something to celebrate the return of spring. I feel as if I could hardly wait for the first May flowers."

"I'll stay," said the doctor. "Only don't make company of me, my dear."

"I want to make company of you," laughed Charman. "I feel exactly like company. I shall get out the gold-headed cane the late Mr. Davis bought thought it's far too large. Here's John. He's not too busy I'll make him help."

To judge from the voices and laughter issuing from the kitchen as a bit later, the young man was not too busy to whip cream. Charman mixed up some biscuits. She arranged her pussy willows as a centerpiece, and got out the very last of Grandma's precious damask to grace the board. It was a gray little supper. The old folks recalled the past to their heart's content, while the young folks listened and laughed and sympathized. The young people did their share of the talking, too; and their audience was fully as sympathetic. Even a telephone call to South Wickfield for Doctor Howe, did not mar the party.

"At least," said Charman, "they let you finish supper."

"And I'll go with you as chauffeur," declared John Carter, as the old man arose.

The doctor smiled happily at them all, and said, "I've had a beautiful time. Good-night, Polly."

He stooped, and with old-time gallantry kissed Grandma's hand; then turned to Charman and kissed her cheek.

"There are compensations for being over seventy," sighed John Carter, and they all laughed.

"Good-night," said the old doctor again as he reached the door. "Sweet dreams to both of you."

"Afterwards they remembered that he had stood for an appreciable moment looking back into the room, as if to impress the scene upon his memory. And that night, his day's work done and his house in order, the old man crossed the River, so gently, so peacefully, that he did not even know he had embarked.

CHAPTER XXIV.

Grandma sat at the window, looking out at a strangely deserted Main Street—waiting.

All Wickfield, she thought, must be at the church, paying the last tribute of respect and love to its old physician. The bank was closed; and the schools, also, Charman had begged to stay at home so that his grandmother need not be alone at this time; and Eddie Baker had done likewise, tears struggling unnoted down her cheeks as she implored: "Please let me. You mustn't stay here by yourself!"

Sally Karples had said: "I'll stay with you, Grandma. The doctor wouldn't want you to be alone."

But Grandma, refusing all these kindly offers, had replied gently: "I'd rather be alone; if you don't mind. I've what I want."

Doubtfully, sorrowfully, they had turned away, to be reassured by the young doctor, who, even more than Charman, understood the old lady's mood.

"Don't you see," he explained at sight of their troubled faces, "it'll be easier for her with no one by. She's not even as bad about it as we are. She knows that her old friend is not dead—he is just away. Leave her alone."

So Grandma sat at the window, waiting.

"It's the sort of day that Edward always loved," she mused. "Spring in the air, and summer on the way. And he went just as he hoped he'd go. I remember he said only the other day, 'And may there be no sadness of farewell, when I embark.' He got what he deserved, a peaceful ending to a useful life."

What more could a body ask? He'd with his Kate, whom he loved and mourned for fifty years. Maybe he's seen Father already, and told him how I sit by the window all day long watching the passing of time, and about Charman, and the neighbors.

For a moment she closed her eyes. Then the song of a bird in the elm tree broke the sadness, and she smiled softly: "The services must be over now. . . . He told Mr. Merry once to make 'em short—for him. Just the Lord's prayer (he wanted

Jesuit Fathers Opened North America To Civilization

The ceremony of canonization at Rome must make a deep appeal to all Canadians who are familiar with the early history of this country, regardless of whether or not they are members of the church that thus honored its devoted sons. The eight Jesuit fathers who nearly three centuries after their heroic deaths have been canonized played a great role in the opening to civilization of the northern half of this continent. No one can have read pages of Parkman without holding their memories in reverence. The story of their exploits and of their martyrdom is one of the most moving in the whole range of human annals.

The example that they gave was followed by a large company of other "soldiers of the cross" who carried religion and all the influences that follow in its train further and further into the outlying parts of what is now the Dominion. Our debt to these pioneer missionaries is one that cannot be over-estimated.—Edmonton Journal.

Prince's Carpet Sold

A Scotch hand-woven wool carpet which covered the floor of Prince Charles Edward's bedroom at Culloden House, where he slept the night before the famous battle, brought only $150 at an auction sale in Glasgow, Scotland, recently. An ancient kiln-pot, measuring 15 inches across, which was said to have been used by the Highlanders on the field of Culloden was eagerly bid up and went for $70.

"What did they teach you today in Sunday school, son?"

"I learned how to say, 'Yes, papa,' and 'No, sir,' when answering questions."

"Did you, indeed?"

"Yup."

Canadian Women Score Again

Canadian Women Greatest Travellers

Another distinction may be marked up for the women of Canada. Last year a British artist publicly declared that in his opinion Canadian women were the most beautiful of their sex in the British Empire, and of course the women throughout the Dominion did not dispute what Canadians generally consider to be such an obvious fact. Now Canadian women are credited with being greater travellers than the men of their country—in summer. In one of the leading Canadian newspapers the following item recently appeared:—

"Canadian women are great travellers—in summer. When father is at home, tending to his work, mowing the lawn and keeping house alone, the wife and children go off to the seaside or the country and such movements constitute the bulk of the traffic."

"One of the big railway systems of Canada furnished a few days ago a two weeks' check on the sex of passengers in the height of summer travel. It was disclosed that eighty per cent are females and twenty per cent males. This disparity, however, does not exist all the year around. A similar check taken in winter disclosed about a fifty-fifty even break between the number of men and women travellers."

Drives Asthma Like Magic.

The immediate help from Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy seems like magic. Nevertheless it is only a natural remedy used in a natural way. The smoke or vapor, reaching the most remote passages of the affected tubes, brushes aside the trouble and opens a way for fresh air to enter. It is sold by dealers throughout the land.

Sore Feet Before It.—There are many who have been afflicted with sore feet and have driven them away from Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. All similarly troubled should lose no time in applying this splendid remedy, as there is nothing like it to be had. It is cheap, but its power is in no way expressed by its low price.

Work For Unemployed

Preliminary survey of the northern part of Saskatchewan, in connection with the provincial government scheme toward solution of unemployment, has been completed, said Hon. J. A. Merkley, Minister of Labor and Industries. The proposed camp scheme will not be inaugurated, he said, in co-operation with officials of the Prince Albert National Park. It has been decided 50 men may now be employed there cutting away dead and burned wood.

Japanese Visiting Canada

While the Canadian Chamber of Commerce is completing plans for its official tour of China and Japan, leaving Vancouver, October 16, on the liner "Empress of Russia," an important party of Japanese manufacturers and merchants arrived at Vancouver on the "Empress of Canada," for a tour of observation through Canada and the United States.

Earl and Countess of Stair Favorably Impressed With Dominion

Laughingly reminding reporters who met them on their arrival a month ago, the Earl and Countess of Stair were both very ready to give their impressions of Canada, when interviewed at Montreal just before sailing for home on the Canadian Pacific "Duchess of Richmond."

"You will remember," Lady Stair said, "that we were afraid you were going to ask our opinion of the Dominion on the day we landed, and then let us off when we promised to give that at the end of the visit."

Both were enthusiastic about the Dominion, which they visited from coast to coast during their month's stay. "What really appealed to us more than anything," Lord Stair remarked, "was the hospitality of Canadian people. By George, they don't care what it is you want, they jolly well get it done for you."

"One of our principal interests during the visit was to see the conditions under which the cattle were shipped out here are herded. And I must say that I was disappointed to see so many Holsteins and so few Scottish cattle. The Ayrshires we sent out to British Columbia last September are in remarkably fine shape."

During their visit to the coast, the Earl and Countess paid a visit to the Agricultural College at Vancouver, where they were shown prize-winning cattle also from their own Scottish estates.

In Memory Of Canadian Poet

Memorial Erected To Bliss Carman

In Fredericton, N.B.

The house in Fredericton, N.B., where Bliss Carman, noted Canadian poet, was born, has been memorialized. A bronze tablet on the front of the house was recently unveiled. The inscription on the tablet reads:—

"In this house Bliss Carman, Canadian bard and internationally loved poet, 1861-1929. This tablet is erected by the people of Fredericton, Daughters of the Empire in New Brunswick, Earth of my mother earth, spirit to Thee."

This is the first memorial erected to Bliss Carman, who died in Connecticut, June 8, 1929, and whose remains were brought to his native home by the Government of New Brunswick and buried at Forest Hill Cemetery, Fredericton, where a suitable monument will mark his grave. It is proposed to erect a statue of this famous son of New Brunswick in the capital of his native province and in the city where he spent his boyhood days.

Mysterious Fossil Bones

Many Queer Catches Made By North Sea Fishermen

The backbone of a mammoth found in the nest of a Grimby trawler, is but the latest of many queer catches made by North Sea fishermen. Not a few of the fishermen's gardens along the Norfolk coast are crisscrossed with bones of the cave bear, elk, bison, rhinoceros, and mammoth, brought up at various times by the trawls, chiefly in certain regions about fifteen miles off the coast. Sometimes called "the graveyards" or "the silver pits." Geologists suggest that the remains come from what was in prehistoric times the valley of the Rhine.

THE EDITOR

From a school boy's essay on the Editor: "I don't know how news papers got into the world, and I don't think God does, for he ain't got nothing to say about them in the Bible. I think the editor is the missing link we read of, and that he stayed in the business until after the flood and came out and wrote the thing up, and has been kept busy ever since. I think the editor makes a mistake folks say ought to be hung, but if the doctor makes a mistake he buries them and people don't say nothing as they can't read Latin. When the editor makes a mistake there is a big fuss, and swearing and a big fuss; but if the doctor makes one there is a funeral with flowers and perfect silence. A doctor can use a word a good long without him or anyone else knowing what it means, but if the editor uses one he has to spell it. If the doctor goes to see another man's wife, he charges for a visit, but if the editor goes he gets a charge of backshot. Any college can make doctors to order, but editors have to be born."

U. of C. HEAD SARCASTIC

San Francisco, Cal.—Dr. Robert G. Sproul, president of the University of California, in a recent address gave his views of what a university should be.

Whatever the faults of his own university may be, Dr. Sproul made his estimation of the freshman and sophomore years is not the remedy to be applied. He also made plain that he did not condemn a university merely because it was large. He said: "I am disposed to approve mass education so long as it does not become herd education."

A fault of the colleges, he said, is they try to be all things to all students. This he termed urwise, because "some students are social climbers, some are scholars, some are beautiful but dumb, and some are not even beautiful."

WHAT "SILENT CAN" THINKS ABOUT CANADIAN ELECTIONS

NEW YORK, July 31.—The Herald Tribune, under a Northampton Mass., dateline, today publishes the following comment on the Canadian general election in a copyrighted article signed by Calvin Coolidge, former president of the United States:

"In Canada the Liberal party has lost control of the government in the recent election, and the Conservative party will have a clear working majority in the incoming parliament."

"Two elements contributed to this result. The first was business depression, which usually works against the party in power. Many wage-earners were out of work. The price of agricultural products was low. Therefore, both the laborers and the farmers turned to the opposition party. The second was a resurgence of the national spirit. The Canadians voted to put Canada above the Empire. They are for a tariff that will protect their own domestic interests. While their economic ties with the Empire are weakened, probably their political ties are unimpaired."

"Our investments in Canada run into billions of dollars. Whatever will make the Dominion prosperous would be welcomed by us. We have never directed our tariff policy at Canadians and do not expect they will direct theirs at us, but any general policy of protection to build up the country would in the end make them better customers for our goods. We can best deal with a country that maintains our standard of living."

Cause Of Our Economic Ills

Anything and everything that will have even the slightest effect in removing causes of friction between nations on the one hand, or of promoting goodwill on the other hand, should be an ever increasing degree receive the support of every government, every organization, every individual. There is danger as we get farther and farther away from the agony of the war years, 1914-1918, (and as the horrors of that grim struggle begin to fade and become indistinct in our memories, to forget just how awful was the loss of life.)

It is well, therefore, to be occasionally reminded of what the Great War continues to mean to us today, twelve years after it passed into history. Hon. Philip Snowden, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, whose outstanding characteristics in all his public speeches is his clear incisiveness, unswayed by hysteria or undue sentiment, gave a radio talk recently in which he pleaded for world peace, and for the putting forth of every effort to attain that object.

Despite Mr. Snowden's well known pacific tendencies, he dealt only with the mere dollars and cents aspect of war as an agent of destruction. Taking the case of Great Britain, he pointed out that it had spent some 50,000 million dollars on its part in the Great War. This was apart from the loss of the wealth-producing capacity of millions of men drawn for four years from useful employment, and, of course took no cognizance of the loss of life.

The war, as Mr. Snowden pointed out, left Great Britain with a debt of over thirty-five billion dollars, the interest on which alone costs one and three-quarter billions a year. It all has to come out of taxation.

At the present rate of payment, Mr. Snowden added, it will take 140 years to wipe it out. Today the British people are raising $5,000,000 every day, $200,000 every hour, $3,000 every minute for debt purposes. It takes the whole-time labor of 2,000,000 workers year in and year out to pay the annual cost of the nation's burden of debt. To this must be added $75,000,000 which Britain annually spends on war services, and $280,000,000 it pays yearly for war pensions, which gives a total of $2,600,000,000—$5,000 a minute,—which Great Britain has to provide for war purposes.

Such stupendous figures throw Mr. Snowden's main point into bold relief. "It passes the power of the most imaginative mind," he said, "to conceive what prosperity and happiness could be added to the world if the resources wasted by war could have been used for the advancement of human wealth." But even the least imaginative mind must realize from the figures that now is the time for all good men and women the world over to ponder the folly of preparing for another war.

The great economic ills from which the world is suffering today,—and from which Canada unfortunately is not free,—could all be overcome if the huge amounts raised by taxation to pay war debts could be diverted into constructive channels, not to mention what might have been done had the enormous principal sum expended during the war itself been devoted to improving world conditions in all countries.

If the money spent waging war, by Britain alone, had, instead, been devoted to great constructive national programmes, there would have been no unemployment in Britain. Everybody would have been busy during the past twelve years, and everybody would be hard at work now. The whole standard of living in Britain would have been raised, housing and all social conditions would be on a higher plane than ever in the world's history.

And what would have been true of Great Britain would be equally true of all countries. Canada included. It is easy to see how the world, instead of unemployment, depressed business conditions, falling markets, and sundry other ills to this cause and that cause, and to lay the blame here or there, but the basic cause is the war, and the huge burden it has imposed on all peoples and on every constructive, progressive movement that the peoples of the world, in all the several countries, are anxious to carry on.

Campaigning for world peace is not a fad, nor the mere business of the idealist. It is the hardest headed business proposition confronting the world today. In its success is bound up the future welfare of every worker, every man and woman, the future of their children and children's children,—indeed their very lives. Only through the achievement and maintenance of world peace can the present economic ills of the world be remedied.

A Clock That Speaks

Combination Radio and Electric
Photograph Is Result Of Experiment

After considerable experimentation, an inventor has produced a clock that speaks the time. The instrument consists of a combination talking clock, radio and electric photograph all installed in a grand father case. The clock not only speaks the hours and half hours, but also may be made to tell the time in the form of a cheerful greeting, such as "Good morning—six o'clock." The cabinet contains an electric radio receiver with dynamic speaker which is used for the talking clock voice, the radio, and the photograph reproduction.

Good Roads In Ireland

Country Carrying Out Reconstruction
Program Every Year

During the past five years, twenty-seven miles of concrete road have been laid in County Antrim. The programme which has been followed, has been the reconstruction of about five miles per annum of the worst sections of the heaviest trafficked road. During 1929, several of these sections have been linked up, and by the end of the year there will be one section seventeen miles long. This will be the longest stretch of continuous concrete road in the British Isles.

Some extraordinary farm service records were revealed by the awards to servants and laborers in connection with the Lincolnshire Agricultural Society's annual show held at Skegness, England. In the class for long service in husbandry, who have worked on the same farm for the greatest number of years, Samuel Benton, of Horncastle, aged 74, took the premier award, his record being 55½ years with Messrs. W. Crowder and Sons, of Horncastle. The second prize winner, aged 83, William Goodwin, of Rippington, South Lincs, had 53 years' service to his credit.

Manitoba Water Power

Claimed That Bulk Of Water Power
In Prairie Provinces Located In Manitoba

The considerable power resources of the Province of Manitoba are estimated at 5,000,000 h.p., of which 308,000 h.p. already are in operation. It is claimed that 72 per cent. of all the water power resources in the prairie provinces are situated in Manitoba. The Winnipeg River power sites are estimated to be sufficient to provide for a population of 2,500,000 in Winnipeg and to provide employment for 300,000 industrial workers. This power will turn out products worth in the neighborhood of a billion dollars every year.

In the editorial columns of the Alberta Farmer, dated July 10, 1930, reference is made to the fact that in spite of the existing depression in the wheat market, Pool members are not despondent. We quote from the editorial:

"On the contrary, when they look back to pre-Pool days they congratulate themselves that the Pool is functioning in this year of low prices. And they shiver when they think of what depths wheat prices might have gone had there been no Pool."

Pale People Are In Peril

Some Form Of Nervous Breakdown Always Threatens
Them

Pale people are almost always nervous. Paleness denotes lack of blood and too little blood usually results in faded nerves, sleeplessness, headaches or neuritis.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are different from most other medicines—it is impossible to take them and not feel better. Their whole mission is to make rich, red blood. This new blood strengthens the nerves and gives vitality to the whole body. Concerning them Mrs. G. Cook, Floor Superintendent, Toronto, says: "Two years ago I used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for a nervous breakdown with the result that I have been well and strong ever since."

You can get these Pills from any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Experiments In Television

Broadcasting Of A Play In English
Not A Complete Success

For the first time in England the Baird system of television was supplied to the public, although still in the experimental stage, with the broadcasting of a play by the British Broadcasting Corporation. The piece chosen was Luigi Pirandello's "The Man With a Flower in His Mouth."

The London Times assigned its regular dramatic critic to review the television production and in his review he said:

"Let it be admitted at once that plays by television are as yet a subject for men of science and not for critics of the finer points of acting. The visual transmission is far from perfect. You feel yourself prying through a keyhole at some awaying, dazzling exhibition of the first film ever made. But if the process has still a long way to go before every subscriber of the British Broadcasting Corporation is fully satisfied by seeing and hearing plays in his own library, the difficulties already overcome are many and remarkable."

The space in which the actors have their being is half a small cube, sliced diagonally by an effective plane of photo electric cells. The actor kept as close to the projector as a man with his head in a hand box, with his movements slow and deliberate. When another actor appeared a chequered screen passed across the "stage" and the scenery provided by C. R. W. Neilson's drawings instead of a screen.

The television "stage" is perhaps the world's most intimate theatre, with the producer, L. De G. Sleek, working in inches, where others work in yards. What its audience saw in television was an image of about postcard size of varying clearness. The London Times concludes with the words: "The men of the theatre may meanwhile rest in peace. The time for interest and curiosity is come, but the time for serious criticism of television plays as plays is not yet."

Six Years

International trade of the United States during June declined to the lowest monthly level the country has experienced in the last six years. Exports amounted to $229,000,000, a figure less than that of any month since July, 1924.

Imports for the last month were $255,000,000, which is lower than those recorded since January, 1922. Imports and exports for June were each approximately $100,000,000 below those for the same month last year.

Gems Belonging To Nobility Lost In Airplane Crash

The London Daily Express says jewels valued at $65,000 (about $325,000), were scattered over the ground near Meopham, Kent, at the time of the recent aeroplane disaster in which six persons, including three of the nobility, perished.

The jewels in question belonged to the late Viscountess Edmonstone and the late Mrs. Lighter, both of whom were wearing pearl necklaces and diamond brooches.

Accidental discovery of a few gems by a villager reminded friends of the dead women that they had their few jewels with them. Police are searching around Meopham in the hope of finding others.

GIANT DIRIGIBLE R-100 REACHES ST. HUBERT PORT

Montreal.—After a weary wait, Great Britain's giant threat for the supremacy of the skies, hovered over St. Hubert airport, early on Friday, August 1st. Just a little over three days after leaving Cardington, England, the R-100 reached the mooring mast, marking the end of the trans-Atlantic flight. Fabric trouble caused a delay of several hours, and cut down the speed after reaching the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

As newspapersmen and ground crew awaited, the dirigible was first sighted 10 miles northeast of St. Hubert at 2:04 a.m. Eastern Daylight Saving Time, and was travelling slowly east toward the illuminated landing field. Half an hour later the huge, silvery silhouette could be seen, barely moving, at an altitude of about 500 feet above the ground.

The final appearance of the sky-wanderer after many hours of waiting, was the signal for an outburst of cheering from those at the airport. Behind the high fence surrounding the field, too, were perhaps a thousand people who have braved first a scorching day, then a wind-storm and rain.

It was not the first time the R-100 had experienced trouble with its fabric skin. On its first extended flight over England the fabric tore on the tail surfaces and the rear portion of the ship was rather extensively remodelled in an effort to prevent a recurrence of the mishap.

The ship stopped over the Island of Orleans for two hours while repairs were made to the damaged fabric on her fin. The cloth was torn while the big airship was almost within sight of Quebec.

A large square flap of loose fabric was noticed in the top of the envelope. Captain Henry St. Martin, of Montreal, pilot of a "movie" plane flew within some miles of the airship and noticed that she was barely holding her head in to the wind.

"There seemed to be a tear in the top of the bag," Captain St. Martin said. "She hardly seemed to be moving."

She seemed almost to drift by Quebec, the noise of her motors being hardly audible from the land.

After passing the Quebec bridge the R-100 deepened her sargines and her speed appreciably increased. She was flying at about 1,000 feet.

The shores of the St. Lawrence in the neighborhood of the village were crowded with people eager to get a glimpse of the monster as she sailed by on the last leg of her trip.

Imperial Conference

Premier Ramsay MacDonald Says Problems Of Unprecedented Difficulties To Be Faced

London, Eng.—The Imperial Economic Conference must face constitutional problems of unprecedented difficulty, Premier J. Ramsay MacDonald told a meeting of the United Kingdom Branch, Empire Parliamentary Association, in Westminster Hall, recently.

The year is going to be one of the great, deeply marked years in history, decided the premier. Whoever had the responsibilities connected with the Imperial conference would only succeed by skilfully practising the art of blending lessons of the past with the outlook on the future. While believing in party government, he felt an attempt should be made to get Imperial questions considered first by all parties.

After all, he declared, the commonwealth and the nations which compose it are very much greater than any one party.

Improved Crop Conditions

Betterment During the Past Week Is Reported In Some Areas

Ottawa, Ont.—Crop conditions have improved, particularly in central Saskatchewan and Alberta, according to the weekly crop report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. In Manitoba there has been an increase in severity of stem rust infection, some stands in the central and southern sections of the province having infections ranging from 30 to 75 per cent.

The report continues: Western weather since our report of July 24, has been hot, with scattered showers and some good rains. Precipitation was heaviest in southern Manitoba, in central Saskatchewan, and in central and northern Alberta over much the same territory which received beneficial rains during the previous week. The first low temperatures of the harvest season were recorded from northern and southern stations of Alberta and from Victoria, Saskatchewan.

Crop conditions show a further betterment during the week, particularly in central areas of Saskatchewan and Alberta. Frosts, sufficient to blacken potatoes, are reported by the Beaver Lake sub-station, in the Grande Prairie district. Since from one to seven degrees of frost were recorded, some damage to grain will result, although the extent cannot be determined. With favorable weather conditions, stem rust infection shows a serious increase on the leafy, late bread wheat of Manitoba, with only slight increases on the lighter stands of Saskatchewan wheat.

The full text of the wire from the Dominion rust research laboratory at Winnipeg is as follows:

"Weather conditions were favorable for stem rust development in past week. Decided increase in severity of infection on common wheat throughout Manitoba. Some heavy stands in central and southern Manitoba have infections ranging in severity from thirty to seventy-five per cent. Injury already apparent in certain fields of this area. Light stands much less affected. Some fields of early variety ready to cut in about a week. Only traces rust on durum wheat. Stem rust increasing on barley; severity now ranges five to twenty-five per cent. No decided change reported in rust situation of north-eastern Saskatchewan on July 25. In south-eastern Saskatchewan rust has increased with severity of infection ranging from one to six per cent. on wheat and barley and pustules appearing on necks of plants. Leaf rust found on wheat in Alberta, but no stem rust yet reported."

BENNETT WILL PROCEED TO FORM HIS NEW CABINET

Ottawa, Ont.—A special session of parliament—probably on or before September 11—is a certainty. Carrying out his promise to the Canadian people to deal with unemployment "immediately after July 28," Premier-elect Hon. R. B. Bennett is already taking action in this direction as the first step towards the implementation of the pledges he gave during the recent campaign.

Tuesday, September 2, looms as the probable date for by-election day if any minister selected by the Conservative chief to serve in his administration happens to be opposed.

By-election writs will likely be issued as soon as Mr. Bennett takes office as Prime Minister, with nomination day likely set for August 18. In case any chosen minister represents a constituency in which, under the Dominion Election Act, two weeks must intervene between nomination and polling day. The majority of constituencies only require the intervention of seven days.

Probable cabinet selections are the chief topic of discussion among political observers in the capital. In addition, speakers of both the House of Commons and the Senate will have to be appointed. By reason of his ill health, Hon. Hugh Guthrie (Southwestern), may be made speaker of the Commons, or George Black (Yukon), may be chosen. If his health, however, is considered to permit his undertaking more arduous duties, Mr. Guthrie will probably be appointed to the cabinet.

Hon. R. J. Macdonald (Fort William), is another very probable selection. Dr. Manion was postmaster-general in 1926. Hon. J. D. Chaplin and Hon. E. D. Hockman are prominently mentioned for other cabinet posts.

For the province of Quebec, Sir George Perley (Argenteuil), former Canadian High Commissioner in London; Maurice Dupre, who defeated Genard Lacroix, in Quebec West; Arthur Durnan, victorious Conservative candidate in Chambly Vercheres, and Arthur Sauve, former Conservative leader in the Quebec legislature, are mentioned.

Premier E. S. Rhodes, of Nova Scotia, and W. G. Ernst, elected in Queen-Lunenburg, are possible appointees from Nova Scotia. In Prince Edward Island, Hon. J. A. MacDonald or J. H. Meyers continue to be mentioned for the cabinet. For the speakership of the senate, Hon. C. P. Beaumont, Montreal, who was joint-chairman at the 1927 Winnipeg convention of Conservatives, is a possible appointee.

Has Nothing To Say

Emphasizes Independence

Premier Hertzog Says South Africa Has Right To Secede From British Commonwealth

Pretoria, South Africa.—Emphasizing the complete independence of South Africa and her right to secede from the British Commonwealth of Nations if she ever in the future desired to do so, Prime Minister James Barry Hertzog delivered an important speech on the eve of his departure for the Imperial Conference in London, England.

"No iota or tithe of our independence will be sacrificed," he said. "I am convinced we possess complete independence. The people of South Africa will be prepared to an ever-increasing extent to heartily maintain co-operation with Great Britain and the other Dominions. But co-operation will depend on national independence. In no circumstances may the right to secede from the British Commonwealth be taken from South Africa."

India Boycott Continues

Agitators Plan To Intensify The Civil Disobedience Campaign

Bombay, India.—With plans for stiffening the boycott against British goods and intensifying the civil disobedience campaign believed to be the principal agenda, the working committee of the All-India Congress opened its sessions recently.

Only ten of the committee members were present, 21 being in prison on various charges preferred by the government. The sessions, held behind closed doors, were expected to continue three and possibly four days. Vallabhbhai Patel presided.

Members of the committee said the place plans of Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru and M. Jaykar probably would not be considered. They added that the negotiations certainly would not influence the committee's decisions.

Party Standing

Toronto, Ont.—The Canadian Press summary of the standing of the parties in the Dominion elections is as follows: Conservatives, 138; Liberals, 86; U.F.A., 10; Progressives, 2; Liberal-Progressives, 3; Independents, 2; Labor, 3; doubtful, 1; total, 245.

Chinese Pillage Homes

Communists Loot and Burn Foreign Holdings

Shanghai, China.—In the most serious devastation of foreign property in China for many years, Communists looted and burned all or nearly all foreign holdings at Changsha, capital of Hunan province.

Foreigners generally were safe aboard British, United States and Japanese gunboats, five miles down the Siang River. Four missionaries who elected to remain in the city were unaccounted for.

Changsha was divided into 50 districts for pillaging. Directed by leaders, the despoilers carried foreign effects into the street as plunder before firing the buildings. Coolies looking on were harangued by the Red leaders, and many were persuaded to join the Communist army to seize a share of property "wrongfully possessed by the upper classes."

Despatches said foreign consulates, residences and large offices in Changsha Island open to the city probably would be destroyed.

Value of foreign property already burned amounted to millions of dollars. The total could not be estimated.

Saskatchewan Egg Pool

Increase In Prices Over Those Paid In 1929

Regina, Sask.—An increase in prices over those paid for the same period in 1929 is noted in the final summary of the Saskatchewan Co-operative Poultry Producers Ltd., or Egg Pool, for which are now being prepared at the head office here. This payment covers the second pool of the year, which closed Saturday, July 19.

The prices being paid are: Extras, 22 cents; first, 19 cents; seconds, 17 cents, and c.f.s. 15 cents. They are net cash, f.o.b. shipping point on freight shipments.

NATIONAL WORKS GO ON UNDER NEW GOVERNMENT

Ottawa, Ont.—The tide of party success ebbs and flows but the great national undertakings of this Dominion go on. Several government works have come and gone since the work was first started on the Welland ship canal. It was to have been officially opened on July 1, with a Liberal minister directing it. This formal ceremony had to be put off and now a Conservative government will be in office for this historic event. It is not expected the date for the opening will be fixed for some time.

In the case of the Hudson Bay Railway, the driving of the last spike was planned for last fall but these plans were changed. It was decided to have the celebration on the occasion of the opening of the ocean route rather than at the completion of the railways, so it will likely be next year. Therefore, the new government will officiate at the completion of these works started many governments ago.

The probability is that the new ministry's greatest undertaking will be the St. Lawrence River deep waterway. This prospect makes the portfolio of Minister of Railways and Canals one of the most important in the government, even more because of the canals than the railways. That is why many people in this city are expecting Premier Howard Ferguson to be the one selected to fill that position.

It is interesting to trace the lives of governments alongside such works as the Welland ship canal or the Hudson Bay Railway. The first contracts for the railway were let by Rt. Hon. George P. Graham as Minister of Railways and Canals in the Laurier government, in 1910. This was for one section. Then the government of Sir Robert Borden came into office and the contracts for two other sections were let by the Conservatives. Nelson was then the objective.

Work proceeded through the Conservative tenure of office and into the time of the Unionist regime. It was discontinued in 1918 because of the stress of the war. The government of Mr. Meighen came after that, and in 1921 the government of Mr. King took office. In 1926 the terminal was shifted from Nelson to Churchill, and the railway to that point was completed last year. The port construction and the aids to navigation are in course of construction.

The work on the Welland Canal was started under the Borden government in 1910, and continued until the war stopped it in 1917. It was started again under the Unionist government in 1918 and has been continued ever since.

MANY CHANGES IN PORTFOLIO OF IMMIGRATION

Ottawa, Ont.—Who will be the next minister of immigration? Many names are being suggested. Some think Hon. Robert Rogers will get the post. With the change of government the conference on immigration will not likely be held at least until after the Imperial Conference.

Immigration has had more variety in the matter of bosses during the last ten years than any other department of the government. Before 1921, Hon. James Calder was minister of immigration. Previous to the elections of that year however the cabinet was reorganized and Hon. Dr. J. W. Edwards took over that portfolio. He was defeated at the general election in the Meighen Government was beaten.

In forming his ministry, Premier Mackenzie King first gave the immigration portfolio to Hon. Charles Stewart along with interior. In 1923 however, Hon. James A. Robb took it over and held it until the reorganization of the cabinet before the 1925 election. Hon. G. N. Gordon was then made minister of immigration. He was defeated in the election and the department came back to Hon. Charles Stewart.

During the brief Meighen regime in 1926, Hon. Dr. Manion was minister of the department for a short time, and then Sir Henry Drayton. With the return of Mr. King's government, Hon. Robert Forke became head of the department and remained in that position until December 1929, when he went to the senate and the job came back to Mr. Stewart once more. The present minister is Hon. Ian MacKenzie who was named last month. The election campaign kept him in the west and papers of which he had to pass were forwarded to him there. Now there will be a new minister, but what's a new minister or two in the line of the immigration department? There have been ten changes in nine years and another one coming.

Change Permit System

New System Of Liquor Permits To Be Introduced In Ontario

Hamilton, Ont.—Introduction of a new system of liquor permits under which the total amount of purchases will be designated in dollars and cents, was announced by Sir Henry Drayton, chairman of the Liquor Control Board, at the convention here of the Constables Association of Canada.

This was one of the measures definitely decided upon to curb the abuse of liquor purchasers by recognized permit holders in Ontario. Quoted by a delegate, Sir Henry admitted there were faults in the present Ontario system, but he declared, "I do not think we ever will have the free sale of beer in stores or in parlors."

A dangerous criminal, sought in connection with a major crime usually is safe in jail while serving a nominal vagrancy charge. This was the message sent by Chief M. S. Wight of Windsor, in a paper advocating for police departments the privilege of taking fingerprints and photographs of persons held on charges of vagrancy.

Want Wider Markets

British Columbia Lumbermen Look To British For Sale Of Products

Victoria, B.C.—Urging a greater participation in the British markets by B.C. lumber and asking that a delegation be sent to the Imperial Economic Conference in the fall to further this aim, a delegation representing the lumbermen of the province waited on Premier S. F. Tolmie recently.

The lumbermen described conditions in the province as being exceedingly unfavorable at the present time. Prices were falling and demand was shrinking. The British market was the only one which showed possibilities of expansion.

Wheat For China

Wakelid, Kansas.—Senator Henry J. Allen, of Kansas, in an address here said proposals were being hoped that some of this country's surplus wheat would be sent to the famine stricken areas of China.

President Hoover and Chairman Alexander Leary, of the Federal Farm Board, the senator said, are studying the possibility of distributing wheat to the famine areas through the co-operation of the Chinese Government.

Here is rather a good prohibition story from across the border:—

A traveller stopped to change tires in a desolate region in the far West. "I suppose," he remarked to a native onlooker, "that even in those parts of the country the bare necessities of life have risen tremendously in price."

Evanesence is writ in beauty on nature—the diaphanous garment of God. Gorgeous palaces of clouds gold-tinted; Turner seas at sunset, Alps at sunrise; Corot winds harping in Fontainebleau; Arctic ice floes color-palpitant "neath streamers of Aurora; icebergs that crash from glacier moorings and move away in majesty—all tell of evanesence writ in beauty: all tell, too, of a beauty permanent amid change, fearless in dissolution, magic in ten thousand forms and fashionings, eternal as God—Humane Pleader.
